Midland has long been known for its iconic high school football, being one of the West Texas cities that inspired Friday Night Lights. But Midland, nicknamed “The Tall City” for its towering and energetic downtown, is quickly becoming a favorite destination for sports of all kinds.

Athletes travel from all over the world to play sports in Midland. Each April Midland Country Club hosts PGA’s Web.com tour, the only PGA-sponsored golf tournament in West Texas. The COM Mabee Aquatic Center features two 25-yard competitive pools, and a complete springboard and platform diving venue. It has hosted many national events including the U.S. Swimming Junior National Championships, U.S. Diving National Championships and an Olympic Team Diving Exhibition. The Scharbauer Sports Complex features a baseball and football/soccer stadium with an adjoining outdoor event venue. Security Bank Ballpark has 5,000 fixed seats, 3,000-4,000 additional grass berm seating, two picnic areas for up to 2,500 people, VIP suites and a lounge. Midland RockHounds, the Double A affiliate of the Oakland Athletics, play here. Grande Communications Stadium has 15,000 fixed seats, 3,000 grass berm seats, a press box, and video board. Midland-Odessa Sockers FC play in the United Soccer League’s PDL at Grande. Midland Soccer Association hosts the Turkey Shootout each fall at Windlands and Hogan Parks, bringing in 1,500 attendees from Texas and New Mexico. Many United States Specialty Sports Association (USSSA) events have been held in Midland.
